Objectives

A. There is serious threat to wild and domestic animals, due to cestode parasites. Ultimately threat to the animal diversity.

B. To study the taxonomical survey of cestode parasites of Ahemadnagar and Nasik districts gives the current evolved species in this area.

C. The prevalence and seasonal variation of cestodes may vary according to different Tahasil places in Pune and Satara districts, would be interesting for making the index and avoiding possible infection to the human being and other animals

D. The frequent visits are made, to collect the host intestine from different Tahasil places of Pune and Satara districts. Particularly from slaughter houses, banks of rivers, water reservoir and fish markets.

E. Extensive visits will be made to various libraries for literature survey for references.