OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY:

The present study has the following objectives:

1. To undertake a comparative study between public and private sector banks regarding employees-management relationship.
2. To undertake a comparative study between public and private sector banks regarding job satisfaction level in relation to nature of job.
3. To undertake a comparative study between public and private sector banks regarding job satisfaction level in relation to the working conditions.
4. To undertake a comparative study between public and private sector banks regarding job satisfaction level in relation to job stress.
5. To undertake a comparative study between public and private sector banks regarding job satisfaction level in relation to job involvement.
6. To suggest the measures to improve the level of job satisfaction.