HYPOTHESIS

Restorative justice will lead to reform of the juvenile offender. Restorative justice is an extremely promising avenue for further exploration and finding out satisfying solution for the reintegration of juvenile offenders in the society.

While traditionally criminal justice systems have focused on punishing offenders and removing them from society. Today, criminal justice systems around the world are adopting approaches that minimize the effects of crime on people and communities and prevent offenders from committing more crimes.

They include restorative justice and alternative measures for the juvenile offenders in India and to improve the condition of juvenile.