Objective of Research work

Objectives of this study are

- comprehending and speculating the virus and malware kinds
- comprehending how the distinct malware architectures attack
- developing designs that are centered around inherent protection approach rather than of solely relying on third party antivirus
- A structure for safeguarding against virus and malware threats of future