Hypothesis

Whether the Legal Frame Work in India is adequate to address the concerns arising from quick growth of medical research which taps the poor and vulnerable section of the society.

Whether India is able to balance advancement of medical research and protection of human rights through the doctrine of Informed Consent.