Hypotheses of the study

Keeping this problem in her mind the researcher makes following hypotheses:-

1) There will be a positive relationship of secondary school teacher effectiveness and emotional intelligence.

2) There will be a positive relationship of secondary school teachers effectiveness and teacher competence.

3) There will be positive relationship between the teachers and students.

4) Secondary school teachers with higher level of emotional intelligence will be found better in teacher effectiveness in comparison to teachers with lower level.

5) Secondary school teachers with higher level of emotional intelligence will be found better in teacher effectiveness in comparison to teachers with moderate level.

6) Secondary school teachers with moderate level of emotional intelligence will be found better in teacher effectiveness in comparison to teachers with lower level.

7) Secondary School Teachers with higher level of teacher competence and creativity will be found better in teacher effectiveness in comparison to teachers with lower level.

8) Teachers with higher level of teacher competence and creativity will be found better in teacher effectiveness in comparison to teachers with moderate level.

9) Secondary school teachers with moderate level of teacher competence and creativity will be found better in teacher effectiveness in comparison to teachers with lower level.