HYPOTHESES

To attain the objectives of this study, following hypotheses have been put for testing: -

1. Non-professional college students have low Emotional Intelligence than the Professional college students.

2. Non-Professional college students have low Academic Performance than the professional college students.

3. There is a Positive correlation between Emotional Intelligence and academic performance among the Professional college students.

4. There is a Positive correlation between Emotional Intelligence and academic performance among the Non-Professional college students.