Objectives of present work-

Growth and economic development are important goals of any society and every country. Finding factors of non-development and finding suitable way to achieve to development is important for government. In the study researcher is trying to review state based of facilities so that researcher can base them on index and review the important causes of this imbalance in the state of India. The researcher suggests and refers to the methods of economic policies which are effective in reducing existing imbalance. Through the research work the aim is to give substantial thought to economic and political activities to minimize the disparities in the economic development of the states and within the state. For this purpose the researcher is trying to study the factors responsible for disparities in depth to arrive at the suitable solution to overcome these disparities.