Hypothesis

1. The gap between developed and under-developed regions is increasing.

2. People are migrating from under-developed areas to developed areas.

3. Government has not succeeded in achieving the economic balance among the states and regions of the country.

4. Increased investment on infrastructure can minimize the economic disparities among the states of India.