OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

The Present study attempts to achieve the following objectives:

- To identify the frequency of visit in the library.

- To know the Information gathering habits using IT and what strategy they use for searching the information of students in various Universities in Punjab.

- To identify the existing pattern of information gathering habits using IT of Faculty and research scholars in Punjab Universities.

- To identify the information requirements of Faculty and research scholars.

- To identify some of the factors influencing information need habits of Faculty and Research Scholars.

- To find out the Information sources and services, existing in the respective fields to satisfy the information needs of the students in Punjab Universities using IT.

- To assess and measure to user’s opinion on IT based services keeping in view users requirements and satisfaction in the networked environment.