HYPOTHESIS OF STUDY

This hypothesis drawn from this study may be as follows:

1. The imports increased, yet welcoming signals are shown in the direction of foreign trade in India.
2. Service sector improvised and increased its share during the current Exim Policy.
3. Increased non-POL import led to increased trade deficit. FDI s and huge accumulation of foreign exchange reserves implies a comfortable BOP situation.
4. India increased its exports in food products like rice, wheat, fruits and vegetables.
5. The structure of India exports changed in favors of manufactured goods.
6. India has become global competitive and export of manufactured goods has increased manifold.
