Objectives of the study

The main objectives of the study are as under:-

1. To study the impact of the sex on the emotional competencies of college going students.
2. To study the impact of the sex on anxiety of college going students.
3. To study the impact of mode of population on anxiety of college going male and female students.
4. To study the impact of mode of population on Emotional competencies of college going male and female students.
5. To determine the impact of sex and mode of population on emotional competencies and anxiety of college going male and female students so that new vistas of knowledge may be opened for the new research work.