Research Methodology

Research Area – This research complete in the city of Sangli district. All attempts will be made to collect the data from different parts of Sangli. Thus results of Sangli can be used for further studies with respect to Maharashtra in India.

Research Design:

The research aims to quantify the attitudes of society among women. Thus the research design adopted for the study will be descriptive design to cover the various facts of the study.

Sample Size - The total sample size is decided on the basis of the Self Help Groups in Sangli district. The sample size is 200 Self Help Groups across all namely housewife.

Sources of data –

1) Primary Data
A structured questionnaire was built in correlation with objective of research and hypothesis.

2) Secondary Data-
   - Literature from books.
   - Literature form websites.
   - Literature from the articles published in journals.

Analysis of data

Conclusion of present study would be highlighted throughout as per formulated hypotheses objectives and statistical analysis.