HYPOTHESIS

Keeping the objectives of the study in mind, the study intends to test the following hypothesis:

- There is no significance difference in the services provided by public and private sector banks.
- There is no significant difference in the expectations of customers about the services provided by public and private sector banks.