Objective of the study

1. To study the gap between actual required employability skills and availability of skills among management graduates.

2. To study steps taken by management institutes to inculcate employability skills through re-engineering.

3. To study whether potentiality of management students match with the global competition.