Objective of the Study

The general objective of the study is to assess the practices of project management strategies in real estate firms and its impact on project success, a case study in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. The following are the proposed objectives of the present research study:

- To study the project management strategies in real estate firms in terms of project management process groups.
- To study the project management strategies in real estate firms in terms of project management knowledge areas.
- To evaluate the contributions of the different project management strategies process groups that are practiced by real estate firms.
- To evaluate the contributions of the different project management strategies knowledge areas those practices by real estate firms, and
- To analyse the causes of interruption, cost escalation, and deprived quality in real estate firms at Addis Ababa city, Ethiopia.