3. Objectives

- Setting as the spirit of place may be realized reflecting the customs and attitudes of the community.
- Setting represents the psychological, religious moral social and emotional milieu which characters exist.
- Setting as a spirit of place is realized symbolically as microcosm representing certain nation or people.
- It has also been realized as an active protagonist and antagonist influencing the course of the events and destiny of the characters.