Objective of the Study:

- A tandem queueing model that includes feedback and splitting as a unique and novel model for which the joint queue length of the system could be found from the generating function can be obtained.

- To check if the infinite buffers can be used in a model with splitting and feedback.

- To study the effect on the second service station when the speed of service increases in the first station.