INTRODUCTION

Education is absolutely necessary for each and every individual if he or she is to lead the life successfully. It enables a man to find solution of the problems of his life easily. This is the reason that importance of education has been realized since the very dawn of history.

Education is that conductive process which draws a person from darkness, poverty and misery by developing his personality in all aspects as Physical, mental, social, emotional, cultural and spiritual. As a result he becomes a resourceful and enlightened citizen, who contributes all his capacities for the development of his own self, his society and nation. This world has been enveloped in intellectual darkness, if it had not been illuminated by the light of education.

Education makes individual fit for their environment both nature and socio-cultural through the development of their abilities. The process of education which makes human beings successful in their respective environments continues throughout life. In other words, education becomes a life-long process. Man learns from birth to death. It is axiomatic that we learn something from our experience, activities and social environment. Thus, education is not only preparation for life, it is synonymous with life.

TEACHER EDUCATION

Need of the study

India is a very fast developing country of the world. After independence, it has recorded a remarkable progress in every field of life. In this train of progress, the role of education cannot be avoided. Since independence, many educational colleges and institutions have been established. But these colleges and institutions are not significant on the part of the teachers. The teachers of present Fay are not playing their role with dedication and honesty. They do not have proper methods of teaching. They usually waste about half of their lecture time (classroom time) in irrelevant things. (For expel – student’s talk, teacher’s personal talk). So, the wastage of time in irrelevant things is one of the great drawbacks of our educational system.

In the present day world there are many observation methods. These methods also provide feedback and modify the teacher’s behaviour as desired. Interaction Analysis is also one of the observation devices. By using this device we can observe all the activities of a teacher which he/she performs in the classroom, and his/her drawbacks (limitations) can be removed. So, to increase the effectiveness of a teacher the need of the study of their topic is felt.
